GLOBAL PROGRAMS

Disaster Response Program

In times of natural disasters, including hurricanes, floods, earthquakes, and wildfires like those in Maui, The WASH Foundation, an evolution of Clean the World Foundation, partners with local organizations to help provide affected communities with hygiene supplies, access to clean water, and additional essential supplies.

During these emergencies, there is often an increase in infectious diseases due to the crowding of displaced peoples, potential inadequate water and sanitation, and limited access to healthcare. [i] As a method of prevention and control, it is suggested that primary healthcare delivery and proper water, sanitation, and hygiene be prioritized.

You can help now, by donating today.

Through The WASH Foundation's Disaster Response Program, we partner with organizations and governments on the ground to help provide affected communities with hygiene supplies, access to clean water, and necessary essential supplies. Our goal is to distribute these hygiene supplies and ensure access to clean water so we can mitigate the impact of disasters on communities. In emergent situations, it is critical that we prioritize proper water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH). At The WASH Foundation, we are committed to providing immediate assistance when emergencies strike.
